A brief history of VETRA

Vétra is a family-business ; Founded by our great-grandfather, Vétra is attached to its roots and values of quality, preservation of know-how, close relationship with its fellow customers.

Vétra keeps breaking new ground with the use of organic cotton for its flagship jackets.

VETRA has ever been a manufacturer's brand since its creation in Paris. The workshop has been basically linked to the brand.

Since 2010, VETRA through a new generation, continues to explore its past to reinvent new products while keeping in mind that from the origin function makes workwear.

Thanks to its global renown for its savoir-faire of workwear manufacturing, VETRA collaborated with CLOSED, founded by François Girbaud, on a "bleu de travail", made by VETRA and dyed by CLOSED. Vétra also collaborated with LE COQ SPORTIF on a "moleskin pair of shoes", the shoes being manufactured near LE LUDE by LCS and the fabrics dyed by Vétra.

100% Made in France since 1927

Vetra Manufactures all its products in France in its own factory.
Almost 100 Years Of French Savoir-Faire.

Our classic Dungaree washed twill fabrics are made with organic cotton.

ORGANIC FABRICS

The authentic French workwear twill fabric.

The Dungaree Washed twill took over from the moleskin at the beginning of the century to become iconic of French workwear fabric. The dungaree twill fabrics are specific to the French workwear. It has a two-ply warp yarn (two yarns twisted together) to ensure better resistance.

The authentic French workwear moleskine in 100% cotton and Organic since 2025!

The French Moleskine fabric is a very resistant sateen fabric due to very high density of yarns in the weft. Iconic of the French workwear wardrobe, it has been supplied by Vétrea since 1927. Vétrea was also the first brand to offer a wide range of colours (like for the dungaree twill in pure cotton), while the first historical colours were blue and black, because they were easy to dye. Vétrea offers both French moleskine (cotton sateen) and English moleskine (brushed suede).

Laminated suedine is 100% cotton.

Laminated suedine is a technical fabric that combines a soft, matte suede-like appearance with a functional laminated backing. Durable and abrasion-resistant, it provides effective protection against wind and moisture while remaining flexible and comfortable. Designed for French workwear, this fabric is both robust and refined, offering a very chic, understated look that elevates utilitarian garments without compromising performance.
